WELCOME

About the conference

Welcome to the 2026 National PFAS Conference, hosted at the University of Arizona in Tucson. This 5th biennial conference is uniquely designed to exchange information, provide support to PFAS-affected communities, and facilitate engagement across diverse sectors involved with PFAS to accelerate the protection of health and the environment.

Over three days, attendees will hear from leading scientists, regulators, attorneys, clinicians, public health practitioners, and community advocates — exploring the policy landscape, latest exposure and health-effects research, environmental remediation, sewage-sludge issues, Indigenous perspectives, children's health, removal of PFAS from the human body, and emerging questions including ultra-short-chain PFAS, the water-supply pressures of the AI boom, and recent legal settlements.

This year's conference is rooted in Tucson's own environmental-justice history — the legacy of community organizing in response to defense-industry groundwater contamination that began in the 1980s. The exhibition Living With Injury at the Museum of Contemporary Art Tucson (MOCA Tucson), running through June 2026, offers powerful additional context for attendees.

HOSTS & ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The 2026 National PFAS Conference is convened in partnership with the National PFAS Coalition, and Mothers for Safe Air & Safe Water Force, the Southwest Environmental Health Sciences Center (SWEHSC), University of Arizona's Office of Research & Partnerships and the Mel & Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health.

With sincere appreciation to Linda Robles and Mothers for Safe Air & Safe Water Force for their leadership and partnership in bringing this conference to Arizona.

Thank you to our sponsors — see page 25.

Devavani Chatterjea

Director of Environmental Studies,
Carleton College

Unbreakable Bonds — The synergy of science, policy and community in the "forever chemicals story"

Director of Environmental Studies at Carleton College. An immunologist and environmental-health scholar whose work spans chronic inflammation,
chemical exposures, and the interplay of science, storytelling, and community engagement in the PFAS conversation.

DAY 2 • TUESDAY 1:00 PM •
AFTERNOON KEYNOTE

Laurel Schaidler

Silent Spring Institute

The PFAS Multi-site Study: A Health Study Based in Communities with PFAS- Contaminated Drinking Water

Senior Scientist at Silent Spring Institute leading water-quality research on PFAS and other emerging contaminants.
Principal investigator of the Massachusetts PFAS & Your Health
Study and the NIH-funded PFAS-
REACH project. Visiting scientist at the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health.

DAY 3 • WEDNESDAY 8:00 AM •
MORNING KEYNOTE

Lauren Hood

Senior Sustainability Manager, KEEN

Senior Sustainability Manager at KEEN, leading sustainability strategy across product, supply chain, and corporate responsibility. KEEN completed its industry-leading PFAS phase-out in 2018 — years ahead of state and international bans. Master's in Sustainability Management from Columbia University.

DAY 3 • WEDNESDAY 1:00 PM •
AFTERNOON KEYNOTE

Vincent Martin

Community Advocate, Arcadia
Initiative, Detroit, MI

The Jubilee We Forgot — From Exposure to Outcome

Detroit-based community advocate with over two decades on environmental justice — focused on improving air quality in Southwest Detroit through community-driven data collection and policy advocacy. Founder of V Martin Environmental Justice LLC; affiliated with the Arcadia Initiative.

Funders & acknowledgments

The 2026 National PFAS Conference is convened in partnership with the National PFAS Coalition, whose leadership and coordination help anchor each biennial gathering.

Additional support is provided by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. The views expressed here do not necessarily reflect the view of the Foundation.

This conference is also supported by a dedicated grant from the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS) — Grant Number P30ES006694.

The views expressed in written conference materials or publications and by speakers and moderators do not necessarily reflect the official policies of the NIH; nor does mention by trade names, commercial practices, or organizations imply endorsement by the U.S. Government.

Additional support is provided by a fund from the University of Arizona Office of the Provost.

It is planned in collaboration between multiple centers funded by NIEHS:

- University of Arizona — Southwest Environmental Health Sciences Center (P30ES006694) and Superfund Research Center (P42ES004940)
- North Carolina State University — Center for Human Health and the Environment (P30ES025128) and Center for Environmental and Health Effects of PFAS (P42ES031009)
- Northeastern University — PROTECT Center (P42ES017198)
- University of Southern California — Superfund Research and Training Program for PFAS Assessment, Remediation, and Prevention (P42ES036506)
- University of Rhode Island — STEEP Center (P42ES027706)

A note of appreciation. We extend our sincere appreciation to Linda Robles and Mothers for Safe Air & Safe Water Force for their leadership and partnership in coordinating with the University of Arizona Office of Research Partnerships and the Mel and Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health. Their collaboration and commitment made it possible to bring the 2026 National PFAS Conference to Arizona.

Land acknowledgment. We respectfully acknowledge the University of Arizona is on the land and territories of Indigenous peoples. Today, Arizona is home to 22 federally recognized tribes, with Tucson being home to the O'odham and the Yaqui. The university strives to build sustainable relationships with sovereign Native Nations and Indigenous communities through education offerings, partnerships, and community service.

Code of conduct. We are committed to fostering a culture of diverse and inclusive excellence in which persons of all identities and from all backgrounds feel welcomed, supported, and encouraged to engage in the free and open exchange of ideas. Attendees can expect a safe environment free of discrimination and harassment. Sexual harassment, other forms of harassment, or sexual assault will not be tolerated. Individuals violating this policy are subject to immediate removal from the event. The full Code of Conduct is available on the conference website at research.arizona.edu/pfas-2026.
